

Redacted Letter Preview

Our Ref: BGM/bp (T) //

[MED-ID] Letter

[ADDRESS]

62

INTERSTITIAL LUNG DISEASE

Consultant Respiratory Physician

Consultant Respiratory Physician and Honorary Associate Professor in Medicine

Consultant Respiratory Physician

Consultant Respiratory Physician

ame">Division B

Care Group - Emergency & Specialist Medicine Respiratory Medicine

Centre Block, Mailpoint 52

Telephone:

Fax:

contentEditable=false src="/EPRResource/IMAGES/EDC/MapOfMedLogo.png" width=152 height=34
unselectable="on">

Dear

">

, .

DOB: , Hospital Number: , Number:

align=justify>

Diagnoses:

Stage III pulmonary sarcoidosis (histological diagnosis of mediastinal lymph node)

Crohn's disease (jejunal stricture resection)

I saw today who looks well but still feels that his symptoms particularly fatigue, tiredness of energy continue. He gets occasional sweats and also feels nauseous.

[NAME] seem to have got worse his prednisolone which was reduced six months ago.

He has gained 10 kilograms unfortunately since diagnosis on the prednisolone-azathioprine reg currently on prednisolone 10 milligrams once a day and azathioprine 25 milligrams once a day.

He does not report significant GI problems at the moment. A chest x-ray and lung function tes shows stable appearances with no progression and his recent bloods at the end of last month s inflammatory response and normal biochemistry profile and full blood count.

I have asked him if he could increase his azathioprine dose to 50 milligrams once a day for t months and we shall see him at that stage to assess for subjective improvement. I will see hi in four months time with repeat blood tests.

Yours sincerely

Template class=protectedSection contentEditable=false autobookmark="Y"> Signature class=prote contentEditable=false style="COLOR: " autobookmark="Y" userid=" ">electronically checked and

[DICTATION-META]

Honorary Associate Professor in Medicine

Copy to:

[ADDRESS]

E Level

o>